

Supporting You
Through Mesothelioma

If you or a loved one has been diagnosed with mesothelioma we're here to help and support you and your family every step of the way.

Mesothelioma is a form of cancer caused by exposure to asbestos. The condition most commonly affects the lining of the lung, but mesothelioma can develop in the lining of the abdomen and the heart.

Most of our clients are diagnosed with the illness many years after being exposed to asbestos at work. We can't turn back time, but we will fight for the justice and compensation you and your loved ones deserve. We've been supporting people affected by mesothelioma and their families for well over 30 years. We understand that everyone's condition is different – that's why we aim to bring you peace of mind, whatever the future holds.

How We Can Help

We're one of the largest law firms in the country, and our experience helps us recover millions of pounds for our clients every year.

We have more specialists accredited by the Association of Personal Injury Lawyers (APIL) than any other law firm.

A mesothelioma diagnosis is life-changing, and our experts understand the impact it will have on you and your family. Our focus is on getting our clients the support they need and the justice they deserve.

We have experts throughout the UK ready to help you and your loved ones get the answers you're searching for. Our investigations are thorough, and we'll go through your employment history with you to track down those responsible for your illness.

If we're unable to find them, we'll make a claim through the Diffuse Mesothelioma Payment Scheme (DMPS).

Here For You, Wherever You Are

Our experts are happy to meet you where you feel most comfortable.

I would give anything to be able to spend another day with Graham and nothing can give us back the time we lost. At least our case gave us peace of mind for my future.

Hazel Akid
Graham's wife

Graham's Story

Graham Akid, a devoted husband, father and granddad, was diagnosed with malignant pleural mesothelioma after being exposed to asbestos.

After being married for 50 years, Graham and his wife Hazel really struggled to come to terms with the diagnosis. It was at this point that they reached out to us, to help find out how Graham may have been exposed to the illness and if it could've been prevented.

Graham worked for Marley Tile Co Ltd in the 1970s and 1980s as a floor layer. He was exposed to asbestos when cutting thermoplastic tiles and sweeping up debris left by other tradesmen before he started to lay a new floor.

Their legal representatives tried to contest our claim by arguing that the floor tiles didn't contain asbestos. We were able to counter this by providing witness and engineering evidence, and details of previous claims against the company.

Shortly before the case was due to be heard in court, Marley Tile Co admitted responsibility, to the relief of Graham and Hazel. The settlement which followed gave Graham great peace of mind knowing that his wife would be provided for in the future. It meant that they could focus on the time Graham had left and spending time with their family and friends.

Graham continued to take part in clinical trials and the treatment he received improved his quality of life.

Sadly Graham lost his battle with the illness in December 2018. He passed away peacefully with his wife by his side.

Graham showed great strength of character in his fight for justice. We were pleased to be able to achieve the best possible outcome and fulfil his wish that Hazel would have financial security in the future.

Our Commitment to You

The legal process can be a complex one, but we're here to make it easier for you.

Supporting you and your family

We understand what you're going through, so we'll make sure everything is explained, from our first conversation right through until your case is settled.

We'll visit you at home or in hospital at a time to suit you and your family. From the moment you ask us to act on your behalf, you'll have a team of professionals working with you. Within your team, there'll be a dedicated person who you can speak with at any time.

Unique approach

Every client we deal with is unique and has different needs. Good work takes time, and we'll never compromise on this when your quality of life is at stake. Whatever support you need, we'll aim to provide it, from the best medical care to tracking down co-workers to support your claim.

Financial support

Although it's not your first concern, you or your families' finances will be a consideration after a diagnosis.

Every mesothelioma patient is entitled to receive welfare benefits. If you've never claimed benefits from the government, this might be a new experience for you. We'll complete the application forms on your behalf and ensure you receive your full entitlement.

The purpose of a legal claim is to get you the justice you deserve, and seek sufficient compensation to meet any costs that might arise from your condition. Our experts will understand your circumstances, and aim to maximise the financial support so you can begin the treatment that's right for you.

You don't have to pay anything for our services, even if your case is successful or unsuccessful. If your claim is successful, you'll keep 100% of your compensation as our bill will be paid separately by your opponent*.

*Unless your claim is made through the Diffuse Mesothelioma Payment Scheme (DMPS), where legal costs are built into the compensation and they are capped at £7,000.

Mesothelioma and Your Case

The only known cause of mesothelioma is exposure to asbestos, which can happen in many different ways and places.

There are three main kinds of asbestos exposure:

Occupational: When the exposure happens at work

Secondary or domestic/para-occupational exposure: When an employee's loved ones are exposed to asbestos through dust and fibers on their work clothing

Environmental: When the area around an asbestos site is contaminated by airborne fibres.

You normally have three years to start your claim, from the date that you or your loved one was diagnosed with mesothelioma or you found out that your partner's death was caused by an asbestos related illness.

The time limit isn't from when you or your partner was first exposed to asbestos, as these diseases can take many decades to develop.

Don't worry if you no longer work at the same company, or if it's ceased trading or changed names. This won't necessarily prevent a claim being pursued.

Although no two cases are ever the same, they usually follow these five steps:

Free initial consultation

We'll discuss the background of your case and the best way to support you moving forward.

Determining responsibility

We'll investigate when and where you were exposed to asbestos. Even if the company responsible is no longer trading, we can still pursue its insurers for compensation.

Understanding your needs

We'll look at the impact your illness is having, and will have, on yours and your family's lives. We'll calculate the amount of compensation we think you'll need to access the best treatment and ensure your family is provided for.

Accessing support

We can help you claim any benefits you're entitled to, while helping you access the very best care and support services while your claim is ongoing.

Compensation settlement

Most asbestos claims are settled out of court. Sometimes the responsible party doesn't accept blame or agree to the amount of compensation we feel you need. When this happens, we'll start court proceedings, but we'll be here to support you every step of the way.

Proud of Our History

We've represented clients in a number of landmark cases that have helped to challenge and shape the law.

Our experts are pioneers when it comes to mesothelioma claims, and passionate about ensuring everyone gets the justice and support they deserve.

Many of our high-profile cases have gone to the Supreme Court. All of these have changed the rules for employers and insurers, and their responsibility to those exposed to asbestos.

Environmental asbestos

Back in 1995, we successfully represented our client, June Hancock, in the first ever environmental asbestos case.

June had never worked with asbestos, but she grew up near the JW Roberts factory in Leeds, which emitted asbestos dust into the local neighbourhood.

Her mother died in 1982 of mesothelioma. In 1993, very sadly June was also diagnosed with the disease.

The case was the first of its kind. It extended a company's duty of care to those affected by secondary exposure to asbestos, not just its employees.

Hospice care

In 2010 we secured hospice costs for our client, who had contracted mesothelioma after working at a power station in the 1950s. The claim was brought on behalf of his daughters after he sadly passed away in 2007. In addition to the claim they made for their father's estate, they also made a claim for the care their father received during the final stages of his life at St Joseph's Hospice.

This was the first case where costs for hospice care were included in the compensation settlement. Since then we've recovered over £1 million for hospices across the country.

Future treatment

We secured a Periodical Payment Order for our client's future immunotherapy treatment for mesothelioma. This landmark ruling meant that the case could settle before medical treatment started. It also ensured that our client had peace of mind, knowing that all his future treatments would be covered by the insurers.

This was the first mesothelioma case of its kind, and represented a huge step forwards in how care costs were treated as part of compensation packages.

Education Fund

In addition to our commitment to our clients, we're committed to advancing the understanding and treatment of asbestos related diseases too.

For over ten years, our Education Fund has helped specialist cancer nurses to attend courses to further their knowledge of asbestos related diseases and treatment options.

I'm grateful to my solicitor for always handling my case with my best interest at heart and for being a person that I could trust and talk to if I had any questions or worries.

Frequently Asked Questions

If you contact us for an initial consultation, we'll be able to answer all the questions you may have. In the meantime, we hope these answers to some of the more common queries we receive will help.

What should I do if I think that a previous employer may be responsible for my mesothelioma diagnosis?

The best way to get answers is to contact us – we'll make sure your case is thoroughly investigated. We'll look through your employment history, explore where you may have come into contact with asbestos and if there were any shortcomings in the duty of care your employer(s) provided.

Can I make a claim if my employer is no longer trading?

Our solicitors can access several databases, and may be able to trace the company and check whether it's currently trading under a different name.

If your employer is no longer trading, don't worry, compensation is normally paid by your former employer's insurer. Even if you were exposed to asbestos decades ago, we can still help you find out who was responsible.

If we're unable to find your former employer or their insurers, we can make a claim on your behalf through the Diffuse Mesothelioma Payment Scheme.

I'm still working – can I apply for welfare benefits?

Yes – you'll be entitled to welfare benefits because of your mesothelioma diagnosis, and these are not means tested. Our specialist team can advise you further and complete the relevant application forms for you.

How long will a claim take?

A legal claim can vary in the time it takes to conclude. Some can take only a few months, others longer. We'll give you an estimate of time once we've spoken to you further. Claims for government compensation are usually processed very quickly, in a matter of weeks. We'll always try to conclude a case as soon as possible, and always in your best interests.

Can a claim continue if anything happens to me or a loved one?

Yes – if a claim is started during yours or your loved ones lifetime and information has been provided about the circumstances in which exposure to asbestos occurred. It's still possible to pursue a claim after your loved one has passed away on behalf of their estate and any of their dependants.

When should I contact a solicitor?

As soon as possible. State benefits are only backdated for a limited time. Also, in the vast majority of mesothelioma cases, the time limit for pursuing a claim is three years from the date of diagnosis. There can be other ways to claim even after this period. The more information we have, the better your prospects of success.
